

Edom Seifu

Edom Seifu possesses a B.S in Environmental Sciences from the University of Virginia. She is a certified project manager with 8+ years of diverse federal consulting experience where she analyzes processes, proposes solutions, and advances modernization projects through effective stakeholder and change management. Ms. Seifu has and continues to support multiple federal agencies including the National Institutes of Health (NIH), General Services Administration (GSA), and Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) through organizational change initiatives. Prior to joining the SEED Board, Ms. Seifu served as a dedicated volunteer and volunteer team lead for the Ethiopian Diaspora Trust Fund (EDTF), supporting recruitment and engagement activities for the organization since shortly after its inception in 2018. As a proud member of the Ethiopian Diaspora and technology enthusiast, she strives to engage and motivate her peers and next generations in pursuing and advancing their careers in data and technology consulting.